CHEST WILL FACE SHORTAGE

CAMPAIGN ENDED IN FAILURE WITH GOAL LACKING ONE THIRD

Canvassing Halts But Subscriptions May Still Be Made

After six days of intensive campaigning, Xenia's fourth annual Community Chest drive officially ended Monday night—ended with less than two-thirds of the $12,000 quota obtained.

Subscriptions reported on the last day of solicitation aggregated $2,077.80, far surpassing any previous report for a single day, but the grand total is only $7,376.12.

This means that unless additional contributions are forthcoming the welfare agencies participating in the fund will have to get along the next twelve months with $4,628.88 less than the minimum amount designated as adequate to finance the work of these organizations during the next year.

The chest organization announces the campaign is definitely over; that the canvassing work will not be prolonged, but that voluntary contributions will be welcomed.

The present fund total is expected to be swelled somewhat when receipts from the benefit motion picture shows at the Bijou and Orpheum Theaters Monday night are turned over to the chest officials.

There is also every prospect of further increase as a post-campaign "clean-up" is undertaken since complete reports from the regional chairmen of all the thirty city districts have not been submitted.

Chairman T. H. Zell expressed his appreciation of the efforts of all workers who were connected with the drive. He also believes that a better percentage of the quota could be reached if Xenians would only increase their original pledges.

Returns from 101 other Community Chest campaigns completed Saturday night showed 99.2 per cent of the aggregate goal had been raised. "Surely the citizens of Xenia do not want to fall below the standard set by other communities," the chairman declared.

"Thursday is Thanksgiving Day. It is certainly the wish of every one as he partakes of dinner that day and as he ponders on the many blessings that have come to us, despite the period of depression, that the present chest drive shall not end in failure. We may well say it might be worse but as far as the chest drive is concerned, we must say that it can be better and that we can give an extra bit to put this campaign over the top. How many will come forward with an extra pledge?"

Chest leaders reveal that an unsolicited contribution to the fund has come from Dr. Martin Dowling, former Xenian, from Holland, indicating he still retains a lively interest in this community. Cash donations were also received Tuesday from residents outside the city.

Increased interest was also shown by individuals and business houses as indicated by the mounting list of business places classed as 100 per cent chest contributors. Here are the latest additions to this classification:

The Eavey Co., Fetz Brothers Grocery, Buck and Son, Donges Drug Store, Wilkin and Wilkin, F. W. Woolworth Co., S. S. Kresge Co., Genger Brothers Meat Market, Kennedy Shoe Store, Miller and Finney law office, Madden and Shields, Marshall and Marshall law office, Dr. J. R. McCormick dental parlor, Dr. Edward Kern office, Tiffany Jewelry Store, Ledbetter Coal Co., Geyer Book Shop, Ross Grocery, Petterson Grocery, Xenia Bargain Store.

Hiccoughing Caused By Other Ailment Usually

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service
Science Writer

NEW YORK Nov. 24.—Persistent hiccupping, such as several patients in this country are suffering from today, is always a symptom of another ailment, usually serious. Thus treatments effective for intermittent hiccupping, usually caused merely by an overladen stomach, are of no use in the persistent type of hiccupping.

Only an operation to remove the primary cause or a sedative strong enough to partially paralyze the frayed nerves of the diaphragm are effective in these persistent cases.

Dr. Iago Galdston, chief of the bureau of information of the New York Academy of Medicine, made these assertions today in comment on the present "hiccupping epidemic."

Physiologically, a hiccup is a spasm of the diaphragm that causes air to rush into the lungs, but before it gets there the glottis (vocal apparatus) closes, causing the characteristic "hiccup."

For fifteen days Ira A. King has lain in a hospital at Mansfield, Ohio, suffering from persistent hiccupping. They stopped after an operation in which his gall bladder was removed. Complications following the operation have irritated the nearby diaphragm or the nerves controlling its motion.

In San Francisco Henry Hall has spent eleven days of similar torture at a hospital. His condition, however, has been alleviated by the administration of sodium amylal, a powerful sedative drug that partially paralyzes the diaphragm nerves.

Persistent hiccupping results from many serious causes. Among these are peritonitis, gastric obstruction following gastric operations, cancer of the liver or lower lung.

Intermittent hiccupping such as everybody has experienced after meals is due to stomach distention and faint irritation of the nerves to the diaphragm.

"Drunk" hiccupping are the result of similar irritations.

All these types of intermittent hiccupping can be cured in many ways. Dr. Galdston listed the following as equally effective with different types of persons:

"Painful gouging of the eyeballs. Pulling out the tongue. Drinking from the wrong side of a glass. Gargling with plain water. Tickling of the nose to produce sneezes. Any sort of sharp surprise."

Smith had accused Miss Blacketer of loving the dog more than him and threatened to take the animal "for a ride." "I'm sorry," she told police, "but he shouldn't have treated 'Snooks' that way."

Former Judge Given Acquittal By Jury In Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—Former Probate Judge Homer Z. Bostwick and three other men indicted with him today stood free of blackmail charges in connection with a diamond ring episode, following a not guilty verdict returned by a jury here late yesterday.

Franklin Rubrecht, former assistant prosecuting attorney, Charles E. McGannon, former clerk of the probate court and attorney John Cooper were the co-defendants acquitted with Bostwick. Nathan Hirsch, paint salesman indicted with the others, had been dismissed as a defendant on motion of the state before the case was given to the jury.

TWO KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 24.—Two men were killed instantly and a third was injured, probably fatally, today when an airplane piloted by Louis Strickler, 18, of Latrobe, Pa., struck a group waiting to make a flight at the Latrobe airport, near here.

The dead: Robert Pascatore, 24, and Phillip Duffy, 23, both of Latrobe.

Allen Feather, 21, also of Latrobe, suffered a probable broken neck and was rushed to a hospital where doctors said his injuries may prove fatal.

The accident occurred when Strickler landed his plane and crashed into the trio as they stood, almost invisible in the murky dawn, waiting for him to land at the airport.

MAHATMA RECEIVES THREAT; REPORTED EXHAUSTED BY WORK

India Leader Must Accept Failure In Conferences

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The first thing in the nature of a threat to reach Mahatma M. K. Gandhi since he came here for the Indian round table conference was delivered at his headquarters today.

It was a package containing a strong rope, accompanied by a letter telling the champion of Indian independence to go hang himself in Hyde Park. The writer offered to assist.

Gandhi is being heavily guarded by police and detectives. Wherever he goes one police car precedes that in which he rides and another follows it.

The Mahatma, exhausted by his extended labors here, is threatened with a nervous breakdown, International News Service learned today.

The Tory Press has been campaigning for a week, urging the government to end the round table conference and send Gandhi home.

Gandhi and Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald held a conference today in pursuance of MacDonald's attempt to bring the round table conference to a satisfactory conclusion through heart-to-heart talks with leaders of the various Indian factions. Commenting on MacDonald's efforts the Daily Herald says in a front page "leader":

"Surrendering to Tory demands, the government has decided to postpone indefinitely fulfillment of the promise to give India a responsible central government. Instead, India is to be offered no more than a measure of provincial autonomy on the lines suggested in the Simon report."

As was pointed out in these dispatches five days ago, the government may suggest that elections for provincial legislatures be held in the spring of 1932 and make the establishment of a central autonomous government dependent upon how successfully the provincial governments function.

It is thought that Gandhi might accept this temporarily; but that he would resume his civil disobedience campaign unless some satisfactory formula is worked out here for settlement of the communal question.

Gandhi had been sleeping only three hours out of twenty-four since his arrival in London, but during the past few days has begun to sleep for an hour or two each afternoon.

His associates, fearing that he might suffer a stroke, have insisted that his automobile be supplied at all times with first aid equipment.

The Mahatma and those who accompanied him here from India are scheduled to sail from either Trieste or Venice on December 11 or 12 on their return voyage.

RACE NARROWS FOR DEMOCRATIC POST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The race for Democratic leadership of the house was narrowed again today when Rep. Joseph W. Byrnes of Tennessee, announced that he is not a candidate for the post. He said he wished to be chairman of the appropriations committee.

Byrnes' statement, following the withdrawal yesterday of Rep. McDuffie of Alabama, cleared the way for the election of a northern Democrat.

The leading northern candidates are Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York and Henry T. Rainey of Illinois. They will apparently fight it out for the coveted post.

SPECIAL DEPUTY IS HOLDUP VICTIM WHO KILLED ASSAILANT

Kept Fatal Shooting Secret; May Lead To Complications

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24.—Forecasting legal complications, revealing that a special deputy to Sheriff John M. Sulzmann, last week shot and killed Walter Thorman, 33, a suspected gangster, was made by police here today.

Boros' name was included in the list of special deputies which was revealed yesterday by Sheriff Sulzmann after a suit to compel him to disclose his public office records had been filed in common pleas court. The deputy, however, was not listed as one of the few permitted to carry guns. It was said:

Chinese Bandits Are Blamed; League Is Deadlocked

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A Japanese troop train was derailed today near Mukden, resulting in numerous casualties, according to a Tokyo dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Other messages indicated that Chinese bandits were suspected of damaging the tracks in an attempt to wreck the train.

Tokyo reports said that hordes of bandits, taking advantage of the fact that Japanese troops were widely scattered south of Mukden, were making bold raids on the South Manchurian Railway, and that the Japanese were planning severe military action to protect the railroad.

A Mukden dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph said that all traffic on the Peiping-Mukden Railway was halted at dawn beyond Chulihao as the Japanese began a "push" to the south.

The belief was expressed that the Japanese troops would extend the zone of occupation as far south as Shanhaiwan, the coastal city at the point where the great wall comes down to the sea.

Japanese armored trains, according to a Peiping message to the Daily Mail, are already moving toward Chinchow, headquarters of General Yung-Chen's army, over the Peiping-Mukden Railway.

Japanese authorities, said the Exchange Telegraph Company's Tokyo correspondent, declared they were anxious to avoid a clash with Chinese at Chinchow, but felt that a "real war" would ensue if President Chiang Kai-Shek carried out his suspected intention of personally leading an attack upon the Japanese in South Manchuria.

TOKYO, Nov. 24.—Japanese expeditionary forces today launched an attack upon Chinese bandit strongholds along the Liao River, south of Mukden, according to dispatches received here.

Reports from Mukden said that nearly 10,000 bandits, heavily armed, had been operating in the vicinity of Tala, between the south Manchurian and Peiping-Mukden Railways.

Although the war office denied that orders had been issued for a military advance southward, fears were expressed that the new hostilities would lead eventually to a serious Sino-Japanese engagement in the Chinchow area, now held by Chinese troops of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang.

QUAI DORSAY, Paris, Nov. 24.—Faced with an apparently hopeless deadlock, the League of Nations council today again discussed the proposal to send a neutral commission into Manchuria to investigate the Far Eastern situation.

Ninety minutes of oratory was productive of nothing more than an assurance that China will not accept the commission unless Japan first evacuates her troops, and that Japan will brook no interference with her military activities.

Despairing of any new instructions from Tokyo, members of the council asked Dr. Alfred Sze, chief Chinese delegate, if he would not cable to Nanking in the hope of eliciting something in the nature of a compromise.

"I have already asked all the questions, so I know all the answers," said Dr. Sze blandly.

The "secret committee" of twelve, excluding China and Japan, planned to continue their efforts to work out a satisfactory wording of the resolution appointing the commission this afternoon.

TARIFF DEFENSE IS LAUNCHED BY PARTY TO BLOCK REVISION

G. O. P. Alarmed By Attacks; Smoot Leads Defense

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Alarmed by Democratic assaults on the tariff, the Republican leadership of congress today launched a defense of the Smoot-Hawley bill with the apparent purpose of blocking revision during the coming session.

Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee and co-author of the tariff act, led the defense move. He declared a world trade survey, just completed by the commerce department, proved the United States was maintaining its leadership in exports despite the world-wide economic situation.

"It is apparent that American export trade fared about the same as that of the rest of the world," said Smoot, referring to the past year, "American citizens who have been misled into the belief that the 'streams of American foreign commerce have dried up' would do well to remember that 15 per cent of all the exports from ninety nations comes from the United States, and that the latest statistics show America to be the leading export nation of the world by a considerable margin."

Smoot made it plain he would resist any attempt by the Democrats to revise the tariff downward. In this, he seconded the declaration of Senator Dickinson (R) of Iowa, that all tariff revision should be left to the United States tariff commission.

"Arguments that the 1930 tariff act is the cause of the decline in our foreign commerce, fade into insignificance in the presence of the facts," Smoot added. "In the whole of South America, only 16 per cent of the exports to this country are effected in any respect by the tariff, trade declined thirty-five per cent. About 58 per cent of the goods Europe exports to this country are dutiable under the Smoot-Hawley bill, yet the international commerce of that continent fell off only 14.3 per cent."

"It is indeed strange to blame a slight increase in the American tariff, chiefly for the benefit of the farmer, for upsetting international trade."

The trend of international trade throughout the world offers conclusive proof that the current world-wide economic upheaval is a result of causes over which the United States government has no control. It springs from economic maladjustments, which produce a surplus of goods and labor, and a shortage of markets and purchasing power. So long as this condition prevails it would be suicide to keep away the imports that protect our industries and agriculture."

MAIL PILOT IS SOUGHT; GIRL DIES IN STORM

Snow-Bound Train Liberated; Report 12 Below Zero

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 24.—Lost or injured somewhere in the frozen wastes west of Salt Lake City, Norman Potter, 35, air mail pilot with the United Air Lines, was today the object of a widespread search.

Potter has been missing since 2:30 a. m., Monday, at which time he radioed the local airport that all was well. At least eight planes from the local field will takeoff to join the search in case he is not found within a few hours.

Potter left the Oakland airport at 8:30 p. m., Sunday bound for Salt Lake City with air mail. He was in radio communication with the local airport fifteen minutes before he was due to arrive.

Several hours later three airplanes were sent to search for him, four additional planes being sent out later in the day. A winter storm raging in the area in which Potter was believed to be lost made searching difficult.

Extremely cold weather in the region added greatly to the hazard of Potter's situation. If lost or injured in a crash pilots expressed fear that he would be frozen to death before aid could reach him.

DENVER, Nov. 24.—The second death due to the storm throughout the Rocky Mountain region was reported today from Montana, where Mary Snow, 13-year-old schoolgirl, perished in a blizzard near Pinedale.

Juan Magrino, a track laborer, was killed near Gallup, N. M., Sunday when he picked up a high voltage wire knocked down by heavy snows.

Battling huge snowdrifts on the Continental Divide at the Colorado-New Mexico border, snowplows on the narrow gauge line of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad between Durango, Colo., and Alamosa, Colo., had today escorted a passenger train with eleven passengers and five of the crew to safety.

The train was blocked by snow during the storm Sunday afternoon and remained for twenty-four hours in a snowdrift on Cumbres Pass, more than 10,000 feet above sea level. The "news butcher" kept hunger from the snowbound passengers with his sandwiches and the coaches were warmed by stoves.

Passengers and crew were reported safe today at Cumbres. Other sections of the Rocky Mountain region reported highways passable but unsafe. Rail traffic was kept open.

Norman Potter, air mail pilot, failed to arrive at Salt Lake City yesterday morning and is the object of a widespread search throughout western Utah.

Low temperatures still prevailed today although the storm had been spent in most parts. The lowest temperature was reported from Lander, Wyo., where thermometers registered twelve below zero.

Seven feet of snow fell in the mountains near Silverton, Colo., while several automobiles were marooned in snowdrifts near Salda, Colo.

EIGHTH HUNTING VICTIM IS DEAD

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—Ohio victims of hunting accidents numbered eight today with the death of Joe Swisher, 20, of Columbus, accidentally shot in the back while on a hunting trip north of here yesterday.

Swisher died after being brought to a hospital. He was shot when a companion, Paul Shover, also of Columbus, was unloading a gun in preparation to start home.

Others fatally injured since the opening of the hunting season were: Stanley Mazanec, 37, of Cleveland; Kenneth Holmes, 23, of Akron; William Lengyei, 14, of Lorain; Robert Hastings, 18, of Dola; Russell Tureau, 17, of Cincinnati; Robert Bishop, 73, of Hallsville; and Stanley Quail, 22, of near upper Sandusky.

It will mean cutting your high costs of cold troubles—a saving in money, loss of time and health. To say nothing of the discomforts of colds and the severe ills that often follow colds. Test the plan for yourself—without risk. Get a bottle of the new Vicks Drops today. Use it with Vicks VapoRub as directed. Unless results are entirely satisfactory, your druggist will refund the price of the Nose Drops—and the test will have cost you nothing.

Here, briefly, is the Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds."

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold-inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over-tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—Nature's warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. (If there is a cough you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops, actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body resistance to disease at a time when it is most needed. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice. —Adv.

SANTA CLAUS IS COMING!

Jolly Saint Nick Accepts Invitation Of Merchants To Visit Xenia

SANTA CLAUS is coming to Xenia!

He will accept an invitation from Xenia merchants sent him in behalf of Xenia and Greene County children anxious to see the jolly old fellow in broad daylight.

This is the good news for kiddies revealed by the Xenia Retail Merchants Association, which yesterday sent a radio-gram to Toyland, North Pole, extending an invitation to Santa Claus to pay this city a pre-Christmas visit.

The good news came by means of a radio-gram from Station SCT (Santa Claus Toyland,") intercepted by the association.

The radio-gram is as follows: Santa Claus Announcing: To All Toyland Inhabitants: Santa Claus announces that he has received many invitations to make a pre-Christmas visit to hear the Christmas wishes of good children. Among the invitations is just one that admits past misbehavior on the part of the children. Improvement, however, is promised. This invitation invited Santa Claus. He wants to see these honest, manly-children. The invitation, unfortunately, finds Santa unprepared. His reindeer are widely scattered and he does not expect them for several days.

But the invitation is considered so important by Santa Claus that he now commands every member of Toyland to abandon every other activity and immediately begin to search for Dasher and Dancer, Prancer and Vixen, Comet and Cupid, Donner and Blitzen, and asks that none rest until all reindeer have been found and have been brought to Santa Claus for inspection.

The Elves will prepare sample toys to be displayed in the stores of Xenia. See that Santa's pack is full and that plenty of Santa Claus kisses are provided.

Santa Claus hopes that all things may be ready so that he can leave Toyland in a day or two.

When this radio-gram came crisply over the ether from the polar regions, Xenia merchants were delighted.

This is the first time Santa has been invited for a special pre-Christmas visit here with his reindeer and there was some doubt whether he would heed the invitation.

By intercepting the above message it is learned that the good fellow is not only coming to Xenia but is very much excited about the visit. Now it's up to Xenia and Greene County kiddies to see that he gets a warm welcome.

"FOUR HUNDRED" FIGURES

Social Leaders of New York and Nation as Seen by Ethelda Bedford, Gazette Staff Writer

By ETHELDA BEDFORD

Author of "Dear Diary" NEW YORK, Nov. 24. — When you know that Mrs. William P. Wear is the granddaughter of a one-time president of the Pennsylvania railroad it goes without saying that this young woman has practically been cradled in great wealth. And, too, she has certainly enjoyed the bliss of social approval, being of a family well rooted in the best soil of New York and Baltimore.

As the much-sought-after Doris L. Stewart, she enjoyed a brilliant debutante period before her marriage to Mr. Wear.

Conservative in Dress Sim, dark, with soft wavy hair much the color and texture of sable, she has an olive complexion and wears browns and blues quite well. She dresses for the most part conservatively.

Mrs. Wear uses very little make-up, and has unusual poise. She is not what you'd call aggressive either in manner or speech. Hers is not an animated beauty—more a poised, confident sincerity which wears better than perhaps an animated, colorful one.

Her hobby is horseback riding, and she owns several mounts. "American Navy," blue ribbon winner last year at the Bryn Mawr horse show, is one of her favorites. She is fond of pets and animals of all kinds.

Mrs. Wear is the daughter of William Plunkett Stewart and the late Mrs. Stewart, who before her marriage was Miss Elsie F. Cassat, daughter of the late Alexander Cassat, one-time president of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The Family Tree Her father, a little more than a year ago, married the widow of R. Penn Smith. On her paternal side she is a granddaughter of the late

Mrs. William P. Wear

Mr. and Mrs. C. Morton Stewart, and is a niece of Mrs. Edward J. Coster and of Gustav L. Stewart of New York.

She is also a niece on her paternal side of Mrs. John McHenry, Mrs. C. L. A. Heiser, Charles Morton Stewart, Redmond Stewart and S. Lurman Stewart, all of whom hold places among the "great" in the east and as far south as Baltimore.

Mrs. Wear is athletically inclined and it was this mutual interest which did much toward bringing about the romance between her and her husband, who is a member of various sports organizations. He is the son of one of the best-known families in Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker Wear of Penlynn, Pa.

Gotham society holds this couple high in its ranks. (Next: Mrs. John Nicholas Brown)

XENIANS UNHURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Mrs. E. M. Smith, and daughter, Ruth, 418 W. Market St., escaped injury when their auto skidded at a curve in the highway and overturned on one side on the Jamestown Pike, two miles east of Xenia, about 10 o'clock Monday night. They were returning from Jeffersonville, O., where they had been to see Mrs. Smith's son, Leon, who is recovering from injuries received in an accident. Passing motorists from Dayton helped extricate the Xenians from the overturned car.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

In that day shall the Lord of hosts be for a crown of glory, and for a diadem of beauty, unto the residue of his people.—Isaiah, xxviii, 5.

AMERICAN HOMES

American dwelling houses, according to a committee that emerged from Mr. Hoover's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership, are "our largest mass of obsolete and discredited equipment." There is probably much truth in that statement. Although people in other countries, viewing the matter comparatively, would perhaps be glad to have some of this "obsolete equipment."

A great improvement has been effected since the turn of the century in American residential accommodations. City slums, while not everywhere a thing of the past, are far less conspicuous than they were two generations ago. Automobiles and other means of easy and rapid transit have spread urban settlement out. Suburban life has taken a load off urban life, with untold benefit to urban workers.

At the same time, a great deal has yet to be done before ideal dwelling conditions become uniform throughout the country. The process of residential reformation costs money and is not a matter of a day or a year. The "reformers" should be patient.

Although a house is not a home, a home is more difficult to maintain without a comfortable and suitable roof over its head, which it may call its own. The desirability of proceeding as fast as may easily be toward a higher standard of dwelling equipment issues from the fact that the home is still the unit upon which our entire social structure is based. Anything that buttresses home life, as home ownership does, strengthens our national fabric and for that reason should be encouraged.

MERIT APPLAUDED

Judge James H. Wilkerson conducted the trial of Al Capone in the United States Court for the Northern District of Illinois so much to the public liking that new judicial honors, as well as a gubernatorial nomination, are being proposed for him. This is ample evidence that the public recognizes and applauds intelligence and fearlessness on the bench.

The Federal judiciary has provided many instances of enlightened and undaunted service to justice; but we cannot recall any whose immediate consequences were more beneficial to the body politic than the consequences of Judge Wilkerson's conduct of the cases against Chicago's public enemies are likely to prove. The public interest will be best served by rewarding him in the judicial field, where his demonstrated qualities are much needed in this country today.

There is a lesson here for those who oppose every suggestion that our State and Municipal courts would dispense a higher standard of justice if their judges were appointed for life. Al Capone got by State and County courts and prosecutors for years. They were either sewn up or buffeted by this former underworld dictator. Judges and prosecuting attorneys were enmeshed in the net which the alliance between vice and politics had thrown about their offices. They did not dare to challenge Capone's power or invite his retaliation.

Judge Wilkerson could do both because he was on the bench for life, was under no obligation to petty, corrupt politicians for his appointment and consequently could take Capone's number and start him on his way to another. That sort of judicial conduct cannot be expected of our State, County and Municipal courts as long as those who sit on their benches have to ruckle to politicians to get there and stay there.

Maybe all these premiers and so forth are coming over here to get a little rest.

The situation in Manchuria proves that it is not necessary to declare war in order to have it.

Vollva says the end of the present disposition will come in 1936. Oh well, a lot can happen in five years.

Maybe as Sinclair Lewis says, we are living in a world on fire, for we certainly are having a hot time.

Anyhow there is no chance for suspicion that the Sing Sing eleven has offered inducements to good prospects to matriculate.

The facility with which Bishop Cannon can ascribe motives suggests that he would be an ideal chairman for a senate investigating committee.

MORE AIRSHIP HISTORY

Hundreds of communities have had the opportunity to admire the navy's fine new airship, the Akron, on its test and training flights. They have been pretty generally convinced, as is the nation, that airships have a place in the equipment of the United States navy.

A little more than a year ago, Englishmen, also were enjoying the sight of a fine new airship—two fine new airships, to be exact—the R-100 and the R-101. At that time, in the summer of 1930, they were the largest crafts of their kind in the world. Great Britain was determined to lead all nations in airship development.

The two ships had not taken the air, however, with the same grace that won confidence for the Akron. Extensive remodeling had caused doubt concerning the practicality of their design. It began to appear that an ambitious air ministry had squandered a vast deal of money on an experimental method of air travel, without proper direction of skilled advice.

In the summer of 1930 one of the ships the R-100, was flown to Canada and back to England successfully—at least without serious accident. Public confidence was bolstered to some extent. Later, an attempt was made to fly the R-101 to India, with tragic results. The huge airship crashed and burned, with great loss of life, including officials prominent in the air ministry.

Since then, the R-100 has been inactive. The little confidence in airships that the English had gained was wiped out in a wave of agitation against them. It has reached a climax in the announcement that the R-100 will be sold for junk. There will be no more airships flying over England until they have been proved practical.

When the history of the airship finally is written, England's experience will be entitled to consideration, perhaps more consideration than it gets now with both Germany and the United States building airships under the sanction of popular enthusiasm. The airship still has to sell itself. An accident to any of those that remain in the news would rouse most of the doubts that have been quieted, with better success in the United States than in England. — Marion Star.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — For years New York has been crying for more subways. Then, at the cost of many millions, it built the Eighth Avenue subway. Now, it's about finished—and idle. The city can't agree on who's to operate it. Hundreds of new style cars, bought for it, stand rusting. . . . Speaking of subways, New York folk who desire to see Maude Adams as Portia in "A Merchant of Venice," will have to go via tunnel to Newark, N. J., to see her—at least, this year. Doing the best business of anybody on "the road," Maude Adams has decided not to chance Broadway for the present. She may even cancel Newark. Returning to the stage following 13 years' retirement, Miss Adams is reported by New York booking offices to find her public still loyal—and a bit curious.

RETURN FROM CHICAGO

Wall Street operators, who found stock market trading dull and went to Chicago to indulge in that little rise (and speculation) in wheat, have returned to New York.

HOSPITAL EXPERIMENT

Mount Sinai hospital, on Fifth avenue, has opened a new 12-story structure designed to accommodate patients of moderate means at an expense to the patient of less than half the present average charge for private care. A similar plan has been successfully carried out in Boston, and may indicate a trend of lower hospital costs. When I'm hit by an auto I'll remember that.

SUN-SPOTS AND THE WEATHER

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
Many popular misleading notions have been in circulation in recent years regarding sun-spots and the weather. It's erroneous to assume that sun-spots of today will reflect in immediate weather reactions. Sun-spots to as many as 100 reduce the temperature at earth's surface not to exceed one degree. Abundant sun-spots increase solar radiation which increases water evaporation on our planet. Evaporation greatly increases cloudiness that shuts out solar radiation, and so the atmosphere is cooled one degree or less. But in a period of year the net increase of ice in the Antarctic becomes very noticeable; additional icebergs cool sea and air, producing a chain of important weather effects.

Some geographers assert that the course of the Amu river, in Central Asia, has been changed within historic times, holding that, as late as the first half of the Sixteenth century, it flowed into the Caspian sea, and that the course has been changed twice to the Aral sea, where it now empties.

THE MODERN GORDIAN KNOT

APPOINTING MRS. CARAWAY TO FILL VACANCY SEEN AS BAD PRECEDENT

WASHINGTON.—One inclines to think of the widows who have succeeded their respective late husbands in congress as having attained to these official positions by a sort of inheritance.

Upon a moment's reflection it is apparent enough that this is a conclusion no one is entitled to draw as to women members of the house of representatives whose husbands before them have occupied the legislative seats which they subsequently have been chosen to occupy.

Senate vacancies created by death in office usually are temporarily filled by gubernatorial appointment, but representatives must be elected. If the voters of a congressional district see fit to elect the widow of a previous representative, who died during his term, the assumption emphatically is that they want her to represent them and that is exactly the question which congressional elections are held to determine.

The very circumstance that an election is called when a representative dies, to enable the voters to choose someone in his place implies recognition of the fact that the office is not regarded as practically hereditary.

The widow has a perfect right to become a candidate.

If the voters elect her, that is their business.

But the office does not descend to her simply because her husband filled it.

There is no argument about the matter.

The same rule is supposed to apply to senate seats.

But in actual practice, is a departure from it foreshadowed?

It happens that no woman ever was chosen, either by appointment or election, until recently, when Mrs. Hattie Caraway was appointed by Governor Harvey Parnell of Arkansas, to fill the senate vacancy created by the death of her husband.

Mrs. Rebecca Felton was appointed from Georgia several years ago and served for a day, but she was not a senatorial widow.

It is unlikely that much will be said in audible tones in adverse criticism of the appointment of the widow of Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway to succeed him, or even in criticism of the comment with which Governor Parnell accompanied it.

The reasons for this reticence on the part of public men, who are the very ones who feel most strongly on the subject, are sufficiently obvious.

Senator Caraway's death is deeply deplored by all of them. No question is raised that his widow will occupy his place with eminent credit. It is fully recognized that fault-finding with the appointment, at such a time, would be widely denounced as equally brutal and inexcusable to follow him, in crystallizing into what promises to become a nearly unbreakable and thoroughly bad precedent.

Nevertheless, one hears disapproval of the Arkansas governor's action expressed on Capitol hill, in strict confidence indeed, but in extremely vigorous language.

Not, the critics all say, but that the appointment, in itself, was an excellent one.

There has for some time been a feeling in legislative circles, however, that the immediate suggestion, whenever a national lawmaker dies, that his widow is the most suitable person to follow him, is crystallizing into what promises to become a nearly unbreakable and thoroughly bad precedent.

Even the hardest boiled of politicians have long abandoned any thought of continuing to resist the spread of feminine influence in government affairs, but there are oldsters not a few and some not so old who do protest vehemently against a system by which they declare that the widows of men in important public posts are coming virtually to claim, as of right, each her late husband's official position.

Governor Parnell rubbed this proposition in with particular energy.

"I have appointed Mrs. Caraway senator," he said, "because I feel she is entitled to the office held by her distinguished husband. The office belonged to Senator Caraway, who went before the people and received their indorsement, and his widow is rightfully entitled to the honor."

"Not only is she due the temporary appointment, but I feel she should receive the party nomination for Senator Caraway's unexpired term ending March 3, 1933, and that her nomination will be approved by the great majority of the voters of Arkansas."

"If so," observed a Democratic colleague of the late Arkansas senator, speaking of Governor Parnell's reference to majority approval of the appointment at the coming special election, "well and good."

"Nor is there any question as to the propriety of the governor's temporary appointment."

"For all that, Senator Caraway's office did not 'belong' to him in any such sense as to 'entitle' his widow to it. Moreover, good as the appointment was, on purely personal considerations, the custom of naming his widow to follow him whenever a senator dies is now established with a vengeance. It may not always prove so satisfactory."

"I am so blue and heart-broken."

A few days ago we quarreled and he hit me and now he does not speak. I feel it is his place to make up, as a man is not supposed to abuse his wife.

"Two years ago I left him. He begged and begged me to come back to him, to give him another chance. I did, mostly for the baby, and of course I loved him, but it seems now it has turned to hate. Please, tell me soon what to do. I'm desperate. To everything is constantly in my thoughts. How can he love me as he says and yet treat me as he does?"

"DISCOURAGED."

Of course I do not want to stand up for a man who beats his wife. Usually that kind of a man is a bully and would only strike a person smaller and weaker than himself. You can, of course, always go to the court and swear out a warrant for your husband when he beats you.

But it is no proof that he does not love you that he beats you. It may be just the contrary. He may be quite crazy about you, but that very love he has for you may drive

Steak Stew—One pound round steak, four medium carrots, four medium potatoes, four small onions, meat you need, and consequently the less expensive the meal—or the more economical, in other words. These amounts serve six.

Chocolate Ring Pudding—Three-fourths cup sugar, three table-spoons butter, two squares bitter chocolate, three-fourths cup milk, two eggs, one teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake in ring pans. If baked before serving time, reheat, top with hot chocolate sauce and fill center with whipped cream garnished with chopped candied orange peel. Two of these will be required to serve sixteen.

Suggestions
Washing Woolens
Don't sit too near the fireplace in your new rough tweeds. Dry heat is injurious to wool fabrics and sitting too near an open fire is as reckless as drying on the radiator the woolens you have washed. It will rob the wool of its moisture content and make it brittle and easily damaged. Woolens will wash satisfactorily in soap and water, but should not be ironed too dry. It is best to press them on the wrong side with a damp cloth over the material and a wool pad underneath. The wool pad tends to preserve the finish of the fabric instead of permitting it to wear smooth and shiny.

If Skin Is Wet Beware

By LOGAN CLENDENINE, M. D.

Viewing a talking picture the other evening I was shocked when a friend of mine, one of the actresses, was shown getting into her bathtub. Not for moral reasons, I am somewhat too indurated by time for that. Then the directors of talking pictures have evolved a technique of putting ladies into bathtubs on the screen which shows about a square inch of bare back, bare arms and about as much chest as you would see in a conservative old-fashioned evening gown.

No, I was shocked for scientific reasons. Because in the middle of the bath, the lady's maid brought in a telephone receiver and the actress proceeded to take hold of it and have a conversation. While sitting in a tub full of water. Of course, I don't suppose there was any water in the bathtub. But the whole spectacle was a bad example to the audience.

Never telephone or handle any apparatus connected with an electric house plug while you are in the bathtub. Or while your body is wet. Don't jump from the bathtub to turn on a light or to answer the telephone. If you do you are likely to take a much longer journey.

It is generally thought that the low voltages coming through domestic wires are harmless. Generally it is true that voltages of 110 or 120 do no harm, when the skin is dry. But, as pointed out by Dr. Horatio B. Williams, the human epidermis when dry has a great electrical resistance which is lost as soon as the skin is wet.

The news carries the story of a citizen of Philadelphia who was found dead in his bath with an electric apparatus for vibratory massage in his hand. Examination showed that he had evidently died from electrical shock.

"People have been killed in their bathtubs in attempting to turn lamps on or off or to move electrical fans or heating appliances," warns Dr. Williams.

The cause of death is probably shock to the heart. It can be proved in animals that even small voltages of 30 or 40 will cause a condition in the heart known as ventricular fibrillation. This means that the ventricles—the large muscular chambers of the heart—instead of beating steadily and contracting completely, go into a state of quivering. This affects all the minute blood vessels and prevents them from pumping any blood into the arteries of the body.

The warning which is inherent in the recitation of these facts is so often disregarded that they should have wide publicity.

Hubby Beats Her

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

We are accustomed to think of the type of man who strikes a woman as far below our notice. He is a brute so low that the whipping post is the only punishment we can think of that would fit his case.

We think WE would never put up for a moment with a wife beater for a mate. It is the one unforgivable sin.

A man who strikes a woman is a pretty low type of beast, it is true. Most women are smaller and weaker than men and untrained in the art of physical self-defense, and the men who strike them would never do it if they were physically equal. But women lash with their tongues and inflict wounds far more lasting than bodily injury. And the type of men who say cruel, cutting things to their women folk are often far more brutal than the wife beaters, bad as they are.

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am 24, and have been married nearly five years. My husband is a steady worker and a good provider, but the trouble is this: he has a terrible temper and often beats me up over little things. I carry black and blue marks on my arms, which is very humiliating."

"I keep my house neat and clean. His meals are on the table when he gets home, but never a sign of appreciation. Instead, he finds fault all the time."

"I am so blue and heart-broken. A few days ago we quarreled and he hit me and now he does not speak. I feel it is his place to make up, as a man is not supposed to abuse his wife."

"Two years ago I left him. He begged and begged me to come back to him, to give him another chance. I did, mostly for the baby, and of course I loved him, but it seems now it has turned to hate. Please, tell me soon what to do. I'm desperate. To everything is constantly in my thoughts. How can he love me as he says and yet treat me as he does?"

"DISCOURAGED."

Of course I do not want to stand up for a man who beats his wife. Usually that kind of a man is a bully and would only strike a person smaller and weaker than himself. You can, of course, always go to the court and swear out a warrant for your husband when he beats you.

But it is no proof that he does not love you that he beats you. It may be just the contrary. He may be quite crazy about you, but that very love he has for you may drive him to strike you when you make him angry. A person who loses control of himself in anger is crazy and it is well known that a crazy person turns most against those he loves best.

The part a wife of such a man must play is to help him overcome his terrible temper, not to provoke him. Now about his lack of appreciation of your housework. Do you praise him when he brings home his wages and provides well—as you say he does—for you and the baby? I bet you take it as a matter of course, just as he does your neat home and nice meals. And maybe once in a while you say, "Why wouldn't he be just as much your place to tell him what a good husband he is and how much you appreciate his providing so well when so many men spend their money on drink and gambling?"

Don't you see, dear, that you might do things to encourage him so that he wouldn't lose his temper so often? Couldn't you try? What if the quarrel was mostly his fault? If you quarreled, too, some of it was your fault, and you can say you were sorry for that, can't you? I haven't much patience with the person who won't make a move toward peace because the other person was the more to blame.

Think this over, my dear, and it will give you something to fill your mind, and cast out the thoughts of "ending it all," which, after all, would be rather cowardly wouldn't it? Leaving your baby to struggle along without a mother?

PHYSICAL FACTS ABOUT PLANET MERCURY

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Descriptive astronomy of an elementary nature should be a part of the public school program. A study of the physical condition of the planets is intriguing. Planet Mercury is a physical globe approximately 3,100 miles in diameter. Another computation makes it 3,009 miles. Mercury is difficult to measure with exactness, it being a twilight object. Mercury in volume is approximately one-eighth the size of the earth, and its density is nearly the same as the earth's, so its mass would be one-eighth of the earth's mass. Mercury's albedo (reflecting power of sunshine) is very low, but 7 per cent, so it absorbs 93 per cent. Mercury appears to keep the same face constantly toward the sun.

Take Cold Shower

By GLADYS GLAD

I don't believe that it's necessary, at this time, for me to begin raving about the merits of the morning cold shower. I've said enough on the subject in prior articles to convince you that I heartily approve of it. And I think that the majority of you are yourselves beginning to realize what a grand exhilarator it is.

However, I have discovered that there are very few women who really appreciate the value of the warm shower. For it is not alone in contention that any woman who cannot take a cold shower each morning should substitute for it a warm shower. For it is at once in the temperature of the water that the stimulation afforded by a shower lies, but also in the light stinging of the spray of water as it hits the body.

There are a good many women, you know, who cannot take a cold shower. Their circulation and nerves do not recover easily from the chilling shock, and they are left blue and shivering. And any woman who does not react quickly with an exhilarating warmth to the sudden shock of the cold water, should forego the use of the cold shower entirely.

One of the greatest values of a tub bath is the stimulation it gives to the circulation of the blood. But the stimulation is no half what that given by a shower is. And when you consider that the normal circulation of the blood through the skin gives it its health, firmness and glow, and that light, superficial body massage stimulates this circulation, you can see why I stress the value of a morning shower for everyone, whether it be warm or cold.

THANKSGIVING DAY BATTLE WILL CLOSE CENTRAL'S SEASON

Evenly Matched Tilt

The trouble with making football predictions — one of the troubles — is that the forecasters are always seven days behind time. When they pore over dope sheets and make their laborious selections each week, they are discussing and basing their selections on teams that no longer exist.

Their learned arguments depend almost exclusively on what this and that eleven did the previous Saturday, but immediately after those games, the teams in question disappeared behind the practice walls. From within those walls came laments that the various star players were hurt and couldn't play any more. By the end of the week the laments rose to walls of despair.

Coaches and players, however, were doing more than weeping on each other's shoulders. So when a team finally comes from behind the practice walls again for the next game it is almost invariably a better or a worse one than it was the previous week. It is almost never the same. The result is that has come to be vaguely termed "upsets."

Xenia Central High is a case at point, and by no means an exaggerated one. That highly unexpected beating administered to Sidney High did the Bucs a world of good. The victory was a triumph for the Xenia line, which displayed an aggressiveness that left fans dumbfounded.

The spirit of Knute Rockne was not watching over the Notre Dame boys Saturday.

It must have forsaken the Ramblers. As a consequence, the Notre Dame victory parade is over. Staging what will always be conceded as football's greatest comeback, the Southern California Trojans vanquished the hitherto unconquerable team from South Bend. Their triumph was richly deserved.

Competition in the Miami Valley League is just about over for the present football season and Troy is apparently destined to succeed Piqua as league champion. Ironically, Troy faces the presumably easy task of beating the Indians on Thanksgiving Day to clinch the title. Miamisburg and Greenville still have a mathematical chance to win or tie for the title in the event Troy does not perform the expected and defeat Piqua.

It was a bad week-end for football prophets, who were the unfortunate victims of upsets all along the line. Mr. Ernest H. Schmidt, Xenia realist, who was the official forecaster for this department Saturday, had seven winners and four losers, while Emanuel Good, our Osborn prediction expert, probably wishes he had overlooked making predictions Saturday because his record was ten winners, eight losers and one tie, with the score of one game not reported.

The gap between the league-leading Red Wings and the second place Schmidt Oil Co. was widened a little more when the leaders took two out of three games from the Schmidt quintet in a Recreation League bowling match Monday night. The winners collected 2,866 pins while the Schmidt team totalled 2,788. Earl Gannon recorded a big series of 647 for the Red Wings and Carl Highley contributed three games that totalled 618. Theatral White and Lawrence Wagner each rolled 571 for the losers. Box score:

CORN SPROUTS ON PUBLIC SQUARE

THERE is every prospect for a bumper corn crop on the south Court House lawn this fall.

The Court House lawn may seem a queer place to grow corn, but be that as it may, small sprouts are in evidence here and there.

The lawn was littered with grains of corn during the community Halloween celebration here the latter part of October. Due to the prolonged period of unseasonable warmth, coupled with rainfall now and then, the grains took root and corn is beginning to sprout.

Incidentally, the unseasonable spell of "Indian summer" weather is due to be broken Wednesday if weather forecasters are to be believed. Weather experts have been stubbornly predicting colder weather every day lately, and eventually expectations may be fulfilled.

Marking the first meeting of the two schools in football since 1927, Xenia Central and Urbana will wind up their respective grid seasons' Thursday afternoon in a Thanksgiving Day clash on the Urbana gridiron.

The last football game between Xenia and Urbana four years ago was also staged at Urbana with the Buccaneers triumphing, 32 to 18.

Records show Xenia has played Urbana only four football games, the rivalry starting in 1917. In that year the Champaign County school swamped Central by a score of 52 to 0, but Xenia made amends by beating Urbana twice the following season, winning the first time, 24 to 7, and the second time, 55 to 0.

Grid relations were then permitted to lapse for nine years until 1927.

The Turkey Day game this week also marks departure for Xenia from an established custom of playing Springfield High on Thanksgiving Day. For the last four years the Bucs and Wildcats had been in the habit of meeting in this November holiday classic, but Springfield was dropped from Xenia's schedule this season.

The rejuvenated Buccaneers, boasting a two-game winning streak, ought to beat Urbana Thursday — that is if they exhibit anything approaching the spectacular form that earned for them a pleasing 13 to 6 victory over Sidney last week. This belief is based, of course, on the fact Sidney had beaten Urbana, 12 to 6, the week previous.

By International News Service
Double football programs at Cleveland and Cincinnati will be the principal fare for Ohio football fans as the pigskin season draws near an end Thanksgiving Day.

On the shores of Lake Erie Western Reserve will attempt to regain the dignity it lost to Washington and Jefferson last Saturday by defeating a well-rested team of battling Bishops from Ohio Wesleyan, who were idle last Saturday. John Carroll, impressive last week in slamming down Otterbein 18 to 0, will take on the United States Marines.

Two teams bearing the cognomen "Redskins" will provide the proper Thanksgiving setting at Cincinnati. Miami visits the Cincinnati Bearcat team and the Haskell Indians meet Xavier.

At Alliance, Akron and Mt. Union will engage in their annual turkey day argument. The Mounts showed enough strength last Saturday to unmercifully wallop Oberlin and are given the edge over the Zipper, who were laced by the strong Methodist aggregation from Baldwin-Wallace.

Wilberforce will send its Bulldogs out of the state to meet West Virginia State at Institute, W. Va. The Andreas Burkhardt trophy, gridiron award similar to the Little Brown Jug, will be at stake in the charity game between the Miami Redskins and the Bearcats. The Muskies of Xavier are expected to have a difficult time stopping their Redskins opponents, the Haskell Indians, who use Walter Johnson, fullback, and Captain Lou Weller, halfback, in an all-around power attack that has proven dangerous all season.

EAST HIGH ALUMNI CONQUER 1931 TEAM

Undefeated and unscathed on in two seasons East High School's football team bit off more than it could masticate Monday afternoon when it played a far heavier Alumni combination at Cox Athletic Field. The ex-East High stars, showing old-time form, triumphed, 18 to 6.

Pettiford scored the first touchdown for the Alumni soon after the opening quarter began, while a long pass enabled Williams to cross the goal line for East High in the second quarter. Bill Garrett and "Sonny" Smith added touchdowns for the Alumni in the last half. East will close its season against Cedarville High Thanksgiving Day.

FIREMEN CALLED

Firemen were called to the plant of the Wilson Engineering and Contracting Co. to help shut off a valve after a break had occurred in the ammonia line at 12:40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. There was no fire but the run will be scored as the eighty-eighth made by the fire department this year.

TELETYPEWRITER SERVICE STARTED

American business has a new communication service at its disposal as the result of a system that places teletypewriter service on a nationwide interconnecting basis over wires of The Ohio Bell Telephone Company and those of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and associated companies of the Bell System.

The new service, inaugurated throughout the country Saturday, provides for the establishment and operation of central switching exchanges for teletypewriter—machines that typewrite electrically over wires to a distant teletypewriter. Any subscriber to this service can obtain connection with the teletypewriter of any other subscriber of the service within the same city or in a distant city, and this will permit the immediate transmission of letters, typewritten statements, or other information between the two subscribers. In effect, the method used for interconnection of the instruments is the same as that now employed in the telephone system.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The stock market was extremely dull and quiet this morning, with the narrowest of price changes in the industrial and railroad leaders. United States Steel started the day at 61, up 1% from Monday's close, but gradually slipped back to 60. Allied Chemical, Auburn Auto and other favorites were in demand on short covering in the first fifteen minutes, after which they retired with others to the inactive list.

OLD SOUTHERN MINT TO BE FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

Prisoners, not gold, are to be kept in the historic old New Orleans mint, erected in 1838, one of the oldest in the country. Since 1910 no money has been manufactured there and, in recent years, it has been a storage vault for silver dollars. During the Civil war it was seized by the Confederates, who used it to coin Confederate half dollars. The old building is to be entirely remodeled and modern penitentiary equipment installed to care for 500 federal inmates. The work will cost approximately $200,000 or several thousand dollars more than the original structure cost.

MAKES CORKSCREWS IN OLD BARN

Mrs. Nell Clough at her desk.

Mrs. Nell Clough of Alton, N. H., has almost a world monopoly of the corkscrew business in her little factory in an old red barn. She can turn out 61,250,000 corkscrews annually, and that means only right-handed corkscrews. The left-handed ones have to be made by hand. Her product is sold to customers from Cape Town, Africa, to Aberdeen, Scotland; from Chicago to Tokio.

Brings Rare Find

Mrs. Frank Buck, wife of the big game hunter and herself a well-known seeker after rare specimens of animal life, is shown as she arrived at New York with a prize golden gibbon monkey, believed to be the second of its kind to have America adopted as its home. The game-hunting Bucks have just completed a lengthy expedition through India, Sumatra and other distant lands.

Star Gazing

Edna Landi

Depicting a woman drifting helplessly in pre-war Russia in "The Yellow Ticket."

ONCE IN A CENTURY'S TOO SLOW!

Just to fool students of flowers, this century plant, owned by Mrs. S. Acers, above, of Muskogee, Okla., instead of blooming once in 100 years as all well-behaved century plants do, has flowered three times within the last 10 years. Its last production was this month.

Lay Claim to Estate

Mrs. Jasper E. Oglesby and her sons, Richard (left) and John, are seeking to establish their rights in the estate of the late Governor Richard Oglesby of Illinois. If Jasper Oglesby can be located in the State of Illinois he is liable to arrest and imprisonment for failure to pay support money due Mrs. Oglesby, who has been living in want in the manse of an abandoned church at Elkhart, Ill., where the photo was taken.

She Designs Tapestry

Edna Leonhardt

Edna Leonhardt of Philadelphia is said to be the only woman designer of tapestry in the United States and as far as is known, in the world. "The reason why not more women are doing this work is that you cannot make the designs unless you have worked in mills where tapestry is woven," she says. "After I finished art school I spent seven years in various mills working at the machines."

Active in "War"

For the first time since warfare broke out in Manchuria between Japan and China, Emperor Hirohito (above), of the Empire of the Rising Sun, has actively become involved in the dispute. The Emperor himself has authorized the dispatch of a fresh brigade of troops to the war sector—indicating the interest which the ruler has in the Manchurian campaign.

"Most Beautiful"

Presenting the "most beautiful girl in America," Helen Maddox, of Washington, D. C. This charming and happily smiling miss won her enviable title in a nation-wide competition conducted by a movie magazine. That being the case, maybe you'll see Helen parading her pulchritude before the screen ere many moons.

Weds Beauty He "Prized"

John Held, Jr., noted artist and jazz age caricaturist, had the novel experience of picking out his bride first as a prize beauty in the 1923 Galveston, Texas, exposition of pulchritude. As one of the judges for the beauty contest, Held joined other critics in proclaiming Gladys Moore, of New Orleans, as the prize charmer. Three years later he clinched his complimentary opinion by quietly marrying her at Stamford, Conn. The newlyweds are shown in New York.

Bombed Home of Consul

The residence of acting Italian vice consul, Chevalier Fortunato Tiscar, in Scranton, Pa., after it was wrecked by a dynamite blast which seriously injured the 75-year-old official and his wife when they were blown from their bed while asleep. Police believe the bomb was set off by members of an anti-Fascist organization. Inset depicts the injured Italian official.

Cash Settles Their "Affair"

Herbert Spivak (left), dapper young chauffeur, and Gladys Belden, wealthy heiress of Jamaica, L. I., who brought suit in New York to recover $240,000 worth of real estate which she deeded to the former. Spivak denied that there was any understanding of a marriage between them in return for the property—and stated his intention of keeping the real estate. It was said that her father, Dr. Charles K. Belden, had offered to make a financial settlement with the chauffeur, which the latter found acceptable.

"Old Bill" Brought to Life

WHERE FILM STARS LIKE TO WED

The distinction of uniting more movie stars and other well known persons than any other man during the past two years probably goes to Judge Earl Freeman of Yuma, Ariz., shown here. Yuma county courthouse, where Judge Freeman performs most of the town's marriage ceremonies, is also above.

Mountie "Gets His Men"

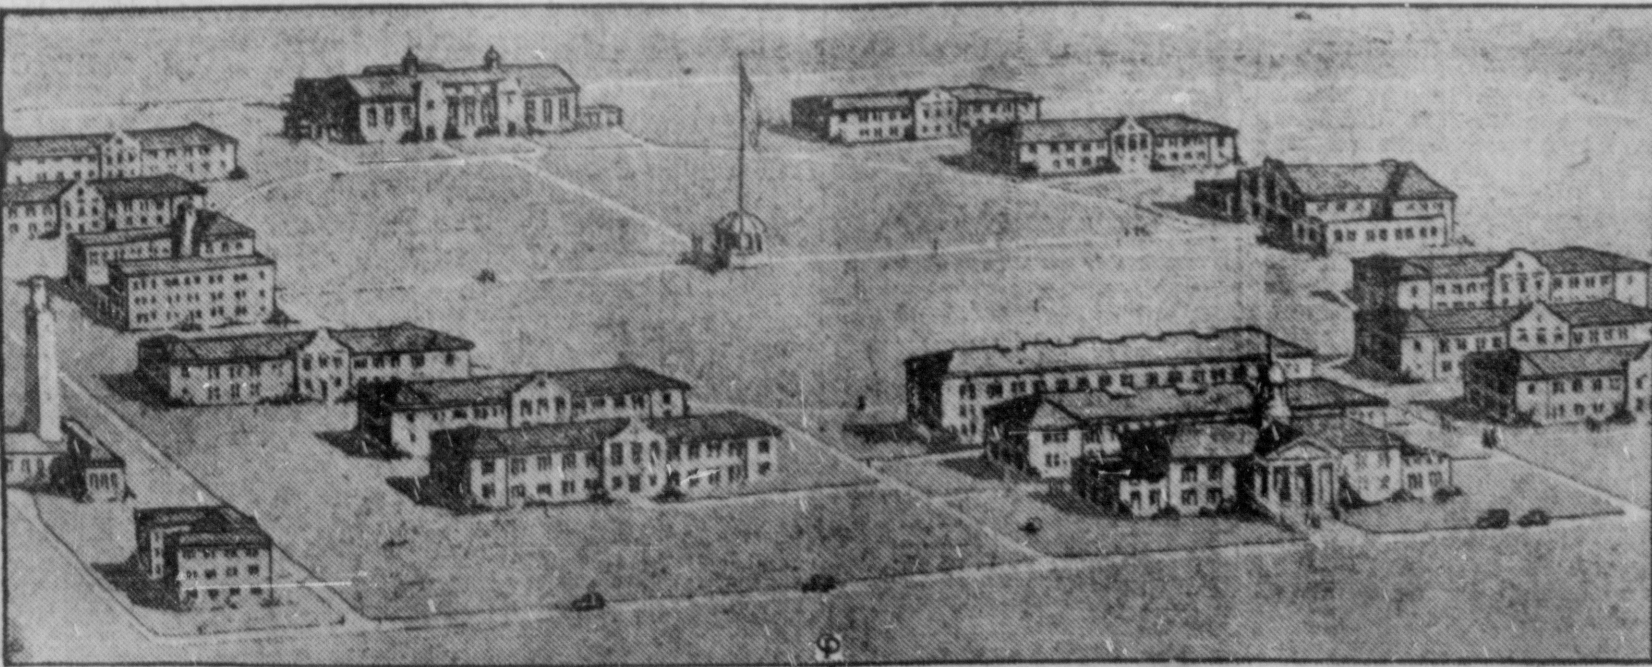

The best traditions of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police were upheld when Sergeant John Leonard (left), following seven years of a dual life, unmasked the activities of a group of Communists at their trial for conspiracy at Toronto and fulfilled the motto of his comrades who always "get their man." For seven years, Sgt. Leonard lived among the "Reds," gained their confidence and held office in their organization. Five of the nine Communists trapped by the mountie are (upper), left to right, M. Popovitch, Tom A. Ewing, A. T. Hill, John Boychuck and Mike Golinski. Lower right are three more of the alleged plotters, Sam Carr, Tom Cacic and Tim Buck.

Tartans Lose Coach

Decision of Judge Walter Steffen, above, of Chicago, that he would not coach Carnegie Tech's football teams after this season, opens speculation as to his successor. An outstanding possibility is Howard Harpster, below, now head coach at Geneva college and a former Tartan captain and All-American quarterback.

Cost Of Star's Clothes, Causes Her Money Woes

What price smartness? Travis Banton, Paramount's fashion designer, estimates that the correctly dressed feminine star spends $10,000 a year on wearing apparel. For a girl making $15,000 a week over a forty-week period, this would amount to one-sixth of her salary. Of course many stars go far above Banton's budget. He is trying to strike an average only. According to his chart, the wardrobe would need two smartly tailored suits costing approximately $400.

Accessories such as blouses would add another $120. The star also would want a half dozen knitted sport dresses running about $210. Then there would be one light fur coat ($500) and a heavy fur, mink for example, ($3,000).

Since the star would be busy most afternoons on the set, he figures two or three dresses such as ensembles, would get her by. On the other hand she would need at least ten evening dresses costing $2,600. Also a fur evening wrap, probably ermine which would run from $2,500 to $3,000. Then two additional wraps at $500 apiece.

After going through the entire list—Sport clothes, beach apparel, informal dresses, shoes, stockings, lingerie and hats, together with bags, gloves, etc., he first arrived at a figure of $14,500. Paring down prices, chiefly on the coats, he finally set the cost of smartness at $10,000. Or, going the other extreme, the sky's the limit. Lupe Velez, for instance, has fourteen fur coats.

David Selznick has added Robert Armstrong to the cast of "The Lost Squadron" and he now has a part ranking with those of Richard Dix and Joel McCrea. Other principals in this air-extravaganza will be Eric Von Stroheim, Mary Astor, Dorothy Jordan and Eric Linden. Linden is the boy who gives a sensational performance in "Are These Our Children?"

Universal believes it has a new palpitation for the feminine heart in Leon Wayoff, who has been assigned to the romantic lead in

GALEN STARR ROSS, PROMISES PLENTY OF POLITICAL FUN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—Fireworks aplenty will start when Ohio's nearest approach to "Alfalfa Bill" Murray gets his campaign for governor well under way. Galen Starr Ross, who has announced himself as candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, declaring he will run on a "more beer and less baloney" platform, will provide a type of color not found in most Ohio campaigns. His announced intention of charging twenty-five cents admission to all his campaign speeches is not the only way he is different from other candidates.

Ross boasts of being a showman. He will surround his political declarations with an atmosphere of entertainment. His manager, Lamar Funston, was employed as much for his knack of showmanship as for his knowledge of politics.

The question here is: Can Ross be serious?

Ross becomes indignant when this question is put to him. After ranting about the state of government and politics, he points out the need of a man of the people, like himself, and then softens and says:

"I'm deadly in earnest about this campaign."

Trying to be entertaining in a speech is natural to him, because he has for many years been a public speaker specializing in humor. The humor is in his bombast and explosive tactics, which he promises to use against all candidates in his coming campaign.

Certain disappointments lit ahead of Ohio communities which have been waiting until 1932 for state highway improvement.

The program of economy ordered by Governor George White and Highway Director O. W. Merrell will be more economical than was first thought.

In the last few days the department's budget has been cut another million dollars.

Instead of having $8,000,000 less to spend than this year the department actually will have $9,000,000 less, Merrell recently said.

This means limited improvements in every section of the state. Division engineers already have been advised to spare their 1932 requests, but due to the expectations of their communities, this order will not be easily obeyed.

Who will be the next secretary of state?

That is a commonly-asked question at the state house as it becomes increasingly evident that Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown will seek the Republican nomination for governor.

Although many young Republicans and Democrats alike would like to have the job, most of them are saying nothing until they find who is to receive Brown's support. Brown, too, is saying nothing.

Professor H. Gordon Hayes, Ohio State University economist, is regarded as almost a certain candidate for congressman-at-large next year.

University officials are said to have no objection to his being a candidate. If he were elected, he says, he would ask for a leave of absence from the university during his term.

Hayes was beaten for Democratic nomination for congress here in 1930 by Arthur P. Lamneck, who was elected on a vigorous wet stand.

LIQUOR TRAGEDY

Found dead in a sailor's apartment in San Pedro, Cal., Lida Bunlowski, beautiful 18-year-old high school girl and star swimmer, is thought by police to have been the victim of a liquor tragedy. Her mother, Mrs. John A. Bunlowski, prominent clubwoman, says that Lida was regarded as "the most popular girl in town."

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal

A price advance in the great agricultural staples has been long overdue. Large as the surpluses of some crops are, not even the world prostration of trade could justify prices that are lower than the lowest costs of production.

This is why the recovery in grain prices that got under way late in October is hailed with joy. It is based on a certainty that the price was intrinsically too low, plus a half a dozen developments in the grain world, all favorable to higher prices. Whether the rally is continuous or not, certainly the tendency should be upward for the next two months.

The big question is Russia, as usual. The U. S. S. R. started out the shipping season with a burst of speed. Twice as much Russian wheat appeared in the European markets as in 1930, and the grain trade shook its head. But that hasty movement did not hold. At last reports little good Russian wheat was in sight, and observers are beginning to think that the harvest has fallen below 1930 figures.

It is the off-season, of course, for Argentina and Australia. Their growing 1932 crops are believed to be nothing to brag about. Canada's 1931 crop was a semi-failure, as was our own spring wheat production.

Finally, Europe-grown wheat is none too plentiful, and the quality is reported as low.

That leaves our own huge, high-quality winter wheat crop and our carry-over of old wheat as the world's chief source of supply, and it looks as if Europe must buy much of it, willing or unwilling. A continent of bread eaters, they must have bread.

There are two more favorable factors. The unbelievably low prices for grain have done what low prices invariably do—they have increased consumption, encouraged waste, and discouraged plantings of winter wheat for next year. Waste includes the feeding of wheat to animals, where coarser grain is ordinarily used, and even some cases of burning for fuel, as has often been done with corn. Some wheat, as well as much oats and rye, was not even cut this fall.

The fall plantings, after all, are the most significant evidence of the change for the better. Although plenty of acreage is available for expanding wheat production, there has been an important shrinkage from last year—although the exact amount of decrease is not yet known with certainty.

The abnormally high acreage of 1930-31 can hardly be repeated in 1931-32, so that it may well be that the 1932 crop will be somewhere within a reasonable figure at last.

Among others, the federal farm board and its co-operative and stabilization babies may well rejoice over the turn in the tide. For every ten cents of advance in the wheat price the farm board comes "out of the hole" by something like $20,000,000, or it may be more.

If the advance holds, the farm board will be in just that much better shape to present itself before a critical congress and account for its activities of the last nine months.

More important still, if the advance holds it will be tangible evidence that agriculture is leading the way out of the world depression, which is the way many able economists believe recovery must come about.

LOWER COURT AGAIN SUSTAINED IN CASE INVOLVING CHILD

The most recent ruling of Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy on a phase of the six-year-old legal fight between a divorced father and mother, involving custody of their child, Jacqueline, has been affirmed by the Greene County Court of Appeals.

Motion of Davis Little, Dayton, for modification of a decree favorable to his divorced wife, now Mrs. Doris Little Lucas, and involving the child's custody, was overruled last August by Judge Gowdy. Judge Gowdy handed down this opinion August 24, 1931: "The court in compliance with the decision of the Court of Appeals herein, has heard the evidence, but in view of the decree of the Court of Appeals, based upon its decision of June 27, 1930, finds that this court has no power or right to modify or alter the decree of the Court of Appeals now in existence. This court further finds from the evidence, that in its opinion, the former order of this court on October 21, 1929, should be reentered but that any modification or change of the existing entry should be made by the Court of Appeals."
